

Pederson brings diverse background to ABA staff

Jo Pederson has joined the architectural staff of Tucson-based ABA Architects. Her background spans many roles including drafting, programming, construction management, business management, and marketing. Pederson is a graduate of the University of Washington in Seattle, where she majored in architectural studies with an emphasis in construction management. Pederson believes that her experience in managing successful businesses and having served in various capacities in the construction industry prior to her foray into architecture have lent a unique perspective to the built environment as a business. “I believe good architecture is not just based in the aesthetics and functionality of a building, but it must also meet the needs of the client within the budget to be truly successful,” she says. ABA Architects is celebrating its 30th year of service to Southern Arizona and specializes in institutional and educational projects.
